Project Overview

Application

On-line system to take in building details for analysis. CrowSoft is a engineering and tech company. The product that they wish to market is BusIntelligence.

The system must take details for buildings and to provide easy to use analysis features. For example, they may wish to have a review all buildings which cost more than €1 million to build and have special features as this may indicate future maintenance projects that may be exploited. Keep the analysis simple.

The analysis system should be clean and simple. The system needs to take into account the usual details and present simplified graphics. It must be possible to upload files or images.

The administrator should be able to access detailed information and edit as appropriate. Once the client enters details it should not be able to be changed by the client.

Addon Features

Bootstrap

Through this, we get rid of writing our own CSS classes to style webpage elements.

Most importantly Bootstrap is designed in such a way that makes your website device responsive and that is the main purpose of it.

Other alternates for Bootstrap could be - Foundation, Materialize etc. frameworks.
